Responsible Food System Youth Game Challenge

The TRANSFoodMERS initiative continues to inspire and educate through two impactful training events aimed at empowering youth workers and young people with sustainable food knowledge and game-based learning (GBL) resources.

Youth Workers Training on TRANSFoodMERS GBL Resources - Thessaloniki, Greece

Held in the vibrant city of Thessaloniki, this training equipped youth workers with innovative tools and methodologies to integrate sustainability education into their programs. Participants explored the TRANSFoodMERS Board and Digital Game, gaining valuable insights on how to engage young audiences in meaningful discussions about responsible food consumption and production.

Youth Training with TRANSFoodMERS GBL Resources - Munich, Germany:

In Munich, young participants had the opportunity to immerse themselves in interactive learning experiences designed to raise awareness about food sustainability. Through hands-on activities, gameplay, and real-world applications, they developed a deeper understanding of eco-friendly food choices and their impact on the environment.

Why These Trainings Matter?

- Empower youth workers with innovative educational resources.
- Engage young people in sustainable food practices through interactive learning.
- Foster a global community committed to responsible food consumption.

These transformative trainings have set the stage for a more informed and environmentally conscious generation. Stay tuned for future events and opportunities to get involved!
